

Abstract

The object of the present invention is to redress or relieve the effects of in vivo contaminations with endocrine disturbing chemicals and, as such, provide a composition and a food for promoting recovery of the reproductive function compromised by such chemicals.

The present invention encompasses a composition for restoring compromised reproductive, characterized in that it comprises Withania somnifera.